Free 3D Printing Events for Members

picture 1

We're going to host eight 3D printing events at ALA Annual Virtual 2021 this month, and we're inviting all Toysinbox educator members to join us for free. If you are invested, please email info@toysinbox.com for event(s) Zoom link(s). See picture 1 for the events flyer.

Pattern Package Launch

We are launching our 3D Printing Meets Embroidery pattern package! Sushi will be available on June 25th. The introduction rate is $35 for this package. When you pre-pay for this Pattern Package, you will receive the upcoming design STL file directly to your mailbox when they are released. Crystal will be available on July 30th, and Mountain will be ready on August 27th. Your pattern purchase gives you the opportunity to ask questions related to 3D printing the STL files and gives us the chance to keep this line going forward.

Rainbow STL Free Share

In our May issue, we mentioned we were going to share the rainbow STL file for free. We didn't forget. We will accept file requests from June 23 - June 29th. Please contact us if you need a free copy. What a great activity for the summer!
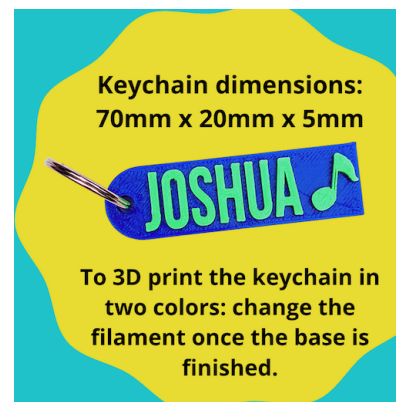

HelloMunchkin

Remember in February when we introduced the kids-friendly 3D printable keychain generator? It has a name now: HelloMunchkin! Since we used it so often in library kids 3D printing events, we wanted to give it a cute name.

HelloMunchkin has a simple look and contains minimal controls for easy keychain designing. The finished name keychain is certainly 3D printable and can be downloaded in .OBJ format for slicing and printing.

If you plan to host a 3D printing event for younger kids, either in-person or virtually, get HelloMunchkin. It's easy for them to 3D design their name keychains that are 100% 3D printable. "No pain, no gain" does not apply here. We defy this saying by making "no pain, plenty of gain" a reality.

We are now offering one time purchases of HelloMunchkin at $159 including web hosting and first-year keychain printing consulting. Members can get 10% discount valid until July 31. Email info@toysinbox.com for purchase.

Thanks for Reading and See You Next Month!
