FUN THINGS TO DO (16)

By J.Y.

Hologram

In this Fun Things to Do issue, we will learn how to make a 3D hologram projector! You may be wondering what is a hologram. It is a illusion of light that creates an virtual 3D object.

To make this hologram, you need a clear CD case, a expo knife, a metric ruler, a pen, and a smartphone. First, draw a line with the pen that is 60 millimeters long horizontally. Mark the center point of the line at 30 millimeters with a dot. Now position your ruler vertically so that 0 millimeters is at the dot you just made. Make sure that the ruler is positioned on top of the line, not below it.

Next, without moving the ruler, draw a dot at the 35 millimeter mark. Position your ruler horizontally so that the 5 millimeter mark is on the dot you just made. Draw a 10 millimeter line horizontally on the dot, centering the line on the dot.

Now connect the 10 millimeter line and the 60 millimeter line ends with 2 more lines. This shape should look like a trapezoid. Use your expo knife and cut it out as neat as possible. Make 3 more of these clear trapezoids so that you have 4 in total. Glue or tape them together so that they form a pyramid-like shape.

To form the pyramid shape, put the 43 millimeter line of one trapezoid against another trapezoid's 43 millimeter line. Do the same for each trapezoid's 43 millimeter long line.

Once you formed a pyramid-with-its-tip-cut-off-like shape with the clear CD case plastic, you are done making the hologram projector. Search up hologram projects and look for videos that combine 4 videos combined together at different angles. A great video for this project is <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=Y60mfBvXCj8>. Play the video on your smartphone and position the hologram projector in the center of the screen. Play the video. If you did everything correctly, on the side of the hologram projector will show a hologram!
